Description of Property and Eligibility Determination (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map and photo)

The small one-story wood shed is designed with clapboard. The side gabled roof has metal sheets and the building is in poor condition.

The pre and post World War II years in Prince George's County saw a large increase in the population due to the influx of wartime workers and the close proximity of the northern portion of the county to the nation's capital. The establishment of Andrews Air Force Base in 1942 led to both military and civilian developments. The automobile allowed expansion beyond the traditional town design and as the post-World War II era progressed, new road construction resulted in the suburbanization of the previously sparsely-settled portions of northern Prince George's County. Maryland Route 5 (Branch Avenue), constructed in 1950, served as a major artery around the western edge of Andrews Air Force Base. By 1950, Prince George's County's population had risen to 193, 799 persons, more than double the population of ten years earlier.

The c. 1930 shed is not eligible for the National Register. The resource lacks significance related to events, persons,
